URGENT $150,000 GOLF LINKS PROPOSED

The laying out of a municipal golf course to cost between $125,000 and $150,000 is favored by a special committee of the town of Framingham. It is recommended to the selectmen as part of a report of the selectmen embodying 26 articles of a warrant to be voted on at a special town meeting next Tuesday night.

The course, comprising 18 holes would be laid out on the town-owned Putnam lands, off Hammond st., Chestnut Hill. In the belief of the committee, the course would be self-sufficient if a fee of at least 50 cents per round were charged.

The committee's report said in part: "We find that construction of the course probably will destroy the existing bird sanctuary, and such will cause a loss or reduction of the bird life, and in exchange for these losses, we should gain a real playground for many who are now without adequate opportunity for golf, and at the same time create a valuable park treatment in an area now largely an overgrown swamp."

SONNY CLASHES WITH KOLOFF

Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, will journey to Worcester tonight to defend his title against his opponent, a recommended prizefighter, Pat Koloff, at the fair grounds.

George A. Cannon, wealthy rug merchant and sportsman from Worcester, has guaranteed Sonnenberg $800 for the match, and it is expected to draw the biggest house ever drawn in Worcester County.

Koloff, who is a half-breed, is a native of Russia and has been a sparring partner only because he feared meeting him in an actual match. Sonnenberg, however, is showing little respect for the champion of the Bellows and will wrestle him tonight confident of a win.

A Scardale bank announces that it will "hereafter" serve customers the bother of paying their monthly bills.

A real trick—if it works.

Language conversation between banker and depositor—

Mr. A.—You advertise that you will pay the monthly bills.

Banker.—Yes, sir.

Mr. A.—Well, here's my gas bill. Will you attend to that?

Banker.—Yes, sir. All you have to do is fill out an application. Of course we make a 3 per cent charge for meter inspection. Then we simply ask you to deposit 10 times the amount of your bill and pay the customary $10 trust fee.

Come back tomorrow and we will be ready to have you sign the check, and stamp and address the envelope.

Believe it or not, but Mrs. McGuffin of Ashland, O., is married to the champion doughnut eater of America and has a cat that grows whiskers like a mouse.

Although they have a radio in their home, they were 565 nights last year without having any callers.

Note.—The above statements are based upon data which he believes to be reliable, but we cannot guarantee results.

Twixt Tee and Cup by BILL GORDON

If THE CITY of Boston is, as claimed, not only willing but anxious to construct a public golf course, a deal should be made with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in Essex Fells Meadows, located in Hyde Park, accessible by state roads, street cars and train.

Essex Fells Meadows is located in the Readville section of Hyde Park, back of the old Readville race track, comprising of 600 acres, which is sufficient for the construction of five 18-hole courses.

As far as the State and the citizens of Massachusetts are concerned, Essex Fells Meadows is a waste of land. There should be no objection to leasing this area in the city of Boston for a public golf course.

Although many of the State senators and representatives, as well as the city councilmen play golf, few have any idea of the expense with which the game is growing. Lack of public courses is stunting the growth of golf in Boston.

There are thousands of citizens of Boston anxious to take up the game, but due to the overcrowded conditions at Franklin Park have failed to do so. Under the present conditions at the park, a beginner must go out with players who are at least as good as he should be played.

In the old days there was a six-hole course for beginners and the novices were not allowed on the big course as they had satisfied the State as to their ability. Most of the days are due to beginners but as they have as many golf clubs as the good players, the traffic must continue to lag.

Conditions at Franklin Park have been brought to the attention of most of the councilmen, still nothing has been done to rectify matters. The golfers of Boston should band themselves together and demand that the city provide at least one more course.

If Franklin Park was a losing proposition financially, the city of Boston would have some ground to stand on. But it is a real money-maker, having an average of $15,000 per year.

Fowl Meadows would solve the public golf course problem for the city of Boston and still Greater Boston, which has a population of 2,000,000 people. It is an exceptionally fertile tract of land, through which runs the Neponset river and could be converted into one of the finest course layouts in this country.

The members of the Neponset Golf Association who played at the South Shore Country Club yesterday will never forget the hospitality shown them by the West Hingham Club. They were entertained most royally by President James H. Kimball and his aides.

But, the former United States Olympic swimmer and Frank Coleman.

One of the most outstanding improvements at South Shore is the caddy. Under Herman Weisbach, who was the caddy for the team at the Nassau Country Club last year, the South Shore caddies have been thoroughly schooled.

Hampson as the textile industry is by problems arising out of overproduction, price cutting, poor merchandising, etc. It need not be assumed that profits are impossible. The excellent record of a few individual enterprises is ample proof of this.

As a class the companies prospered most purely as printers, bleaching and dyeing concerns. Far better than the service manufacturers. There has been considerable variation in earnings even in this restricted group, depending upon management and technical ability and other considerations.

Among concerns which have done particularly well are United Fashions and Apogee Co. Both are quality enterprises rather than volume producers.

About Citrus Fruits

THERE are certain food combinations which are taken for granted—such as corned beef and cabbage, roast lamb and mint sauce, and fish and lemon.

One of the last two foods were favorite combinations long before we knew anything about balanced diets. Lemon, as a garnish, has been popular since the days of the Pharaohs.

Martha Lee tells us that the fruit and helps digest the fish while the alkaline reaction of the lemon counteracts the acid reaction of the fish.

Lemons may be served with fish as a garnish, they may be included in the sauce, or the juice may be used directly on the fish. In boiling your fish the addition of lemon juice to a half-lemon in a quart of water helps to keep the fish whole and to give it added flavor. Lemon juice is also often used in preparing fish for baking or frying, letting it stand for minutes as the phrase goes in lemon juice for an hour or more before cooking.

For a more delicate flavor, add the juice of one small fish, and if you want to give your salad a lemony flavor, that is especially good with oysters, clams, shrimp, lobster, and crab.

Use the ingredients very thoroughly and pour over the oysters or clams arranged in cocktail glasses. You can have this recipe for a small family.

MATHE D'HOTEL BUTTER.
1 c. butter
1 c. salt
1 c. sugar
1 c. lemon juice
1 c. lemon juice
1 c. lemon juice

Put the butter in a bowl and work with a wooden spoon. Add salt, sugar, and lemon juice. Beat until the mixture is light and fluffy. Add the lemon juice and beat again.

Here's a recipe in quantity sufficient to serve a large family. Make it for a small one.

ALLIED FISH SALAD.
Two and one-half cups, gelatin.

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

Observing an unfamiliar shrub by a country roadside, a student of botany stopped to make an examination. "Are you acquainted with this flower, young man?" he asked of a young student.

"Yes, the boy laconically answered.

"To what family do you think it belongs?"

Indicating a nearby house with a pug dog, the boy answered: "Bignonia."

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

Mother—Tommy, how is it I find you with your hand in the cookie tin?

Tommy—I don't know, mother, unless it's because you put my finger there.

The Coquette

"Or light or dark, or short or tall,
She's a sweet in snare them all."
—She's one to try—above her fan
She'd make sweet eyes at Caliban."

THE COQUETTE has no favorites, says the poet. Her domain is none other than the hearts of men. She is a witchy creature, ever tall and short, fair and dark, young and old. It matters not to her who she is, where she comes from, whether he is blind. Once she has set a pair of sparkling eyes upon him, the mischief begins.

And who is poor, defenseless man to cry her name? Even if he is a monster, she will love him.

Philomatheia Party Aids Leper Mission

THE kindly hand of the Philomatheia Club stretched across the Atlantic ocean today and dropped into the leper colony at Genoa, Africa, a plump handful of dollars for nursing work among these derelicts of fortune.

Mrs. Vincent P. Roberts, president, of the Philomatheia Club, which has been in existence for 22 years, has been seen for 22 years. Sister Camilla, who is accompanied by the Rev. Mother Keefe, will return to Africa with the party.

Three hundred women attended the bridge. The Philomatheia Club, one of the largest of its kind in New England, has a membership of 1400.

From a handful of 60 women 14 years ago, the club has grown to its present proportions. Mrs. Edwin A. Shuman was its first president. Mrs. Roberts is completing her fifth year of service for the club and much of its success and development and growth is the result of her untiring efforts and vision and planning.

"Friends of Learning," this is what Philomatheia stands for, committed to the cause of education and the spread of knowledge.

Boston College is the direct recipient of the munificence of these women. Annually they make their contribution of thousands to Boston College, a membership of 1400.

Each Monday 22 members of the club, the largest of its kind in New England, meet at the Hotel Somerset. At that time the members of the club are in the support of the faculty and undergraduate body of Boston College and of the expenditure of $1000 in the past five years for the club.

The party was run by the music committee of the club of which Mrs. Vincent P. Roberts is president. Mrs. William Hanson of Waltham was the guest of honor.

Among the arrangements were Mrs. Charles P. Roberts, Mrs. H. A. Roberts, Mrs. E. Roberts, Mrs. P. Roberts, Mrs. G. Roberts, Mrs. M. Roberts, Mrs. J. Roberts, Mrs. K. Roberts, Mrs. L. Roberts, Mrs. N. Roberts, Mrs. O. Roberts, Mrs. P. Roberts, Mrs. Q. Roberts, Mrs. R. Roberts, Mrs. S. Roberts, Mrs. T. Roberts, Mrs. U. Roberts, Mrs. V. Roberts, Mrs. W. Roberts, Mrs. X. Roberts, Mrs. Y. Roberts, Mrs. Z. Roberts.

By FRANKLIN
COLLIER

Once more, New England ingenuity comes to the fore. New England textile exports have evolved a new type of bed sheet which is at once a delight to the eye and a seduction to the senses. In that silky material named rayon they have fashioned sheets in ivory and peach-bloom and lavender and orchid and every other restful tint.
